

from

A Midsummer Night's Dream

I know a bank where the wild thyme blows, Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows,
Quite over-canopied with luscious woodbine,
With sweet musk-roses and with eglantine

-William Shakespeare

join the poetry reading challenge at whatdowedoallday.com